Right! You need a laxative that COUNTERACTS GASTRIC ACIDITY, too!

"I'm a dud," wailed Mrs. Ralph Reese. "The very day we planned to go to the Fair, I have to get this sickish, headachy feeling. And it will last for days!" But her wise husband knew better. He gave her 2 teaspoonfuls of Sal Hepatica in water and soon . . .

Presto! Sal Hepatica was getting in its two-way work! For one thing, it cleanses the intestines—quickly, gently. And for another, Sal Hepatica counteracts gastric acidity, turning a sour stomach sweet again. Soon . . .

"I'm ready—let's go!" proclaimed the peppy Mrs. Reese, and off they sailed to the Fair. "Sal Hepatica certainly clears your head," she beamed at him. "And somehow, it helps your spirits, too. I feel like a million dollars now. Hereafter, I'll be as big a Sal Hepatica fan as you are!"

The secret? Sal Hepatica is a mineral salt laxative that fights gastric acidity, too. That explains why Sal Hepatica helps in so many troubles where a laxative and an acid-fighter are BOTH needed. Get Sal Hepatica today.

THIS FAMOUS DE LUXE EDITION OF THE DECAMERON

Printed from the Plates of the $17.50 Private Edition

Complete and Unabridged—Over 600 Pages—16 Illus. in Full Color and Gold

Accept This GIFT Volume as an Example of DE LUXE EDITIONS CLUB Bargains—Great Books Like This, Formerly $5 to $25, Which You Can Now Get in Exquisite New Editions for ONLY $1.69 Each!

THE DECAMERON

of Giovanni Boccaccio

Translated by Richard Aldington

With 16 Superb Plates in Full Color and Gold

by the celebrated French artist

Jean de Bosschère

A supremely beautiful De Luxe Edition of one of the most famous books ever written—"THE DECAMERON"—which for nearly six centuries has towered as a peak of man's story telling.

The hundred tales spun in these pages by seven Florentine ladies and three youths are among the most fascinating in all literature. Shakespeare borrowed plot after plot from them. The clear, vivid style of their telling is as crisp today—and as widely imitated—as ever. And in this brilliant translation of Boccaccio's text you have a book which we believe will be unsurpassed in beauty, in lifelong interest, by any other in your library.

This edition, printed from the plates hitherto available only in a privately printed edition at $17.50, presents a careful and complete version of "THE DECAMERON." Lavishly illustrated with 24 full-page plates—16 of them in full color and gold. Size 6½" x 9½"—600 pages. Richly bound in De Luxe black silk pattern velvet, stamped in gold, with stained page tops. One of the most sumptuous books this Club has ever issued. And you may now have it FREE!

THIS magnificent volume is being sent entirely free to new members of The De Luxe Editions Club. Membership will also bring you, each month, a striking new De Luxe Edition of a great book formerly priced at $5 to $25—for the one standard price of only $1.69 each! Furthermore, Charter Memberships in the Club are still open and new members need pay nothing to join!

Ten thousand other people have already joined the Club. As a Charter Member you pay no dues or assessments of any kind. You receive a free subscription to the magazine published for Members exclusively. And you are guaranteed, during your membership, against any increase in price.

The books you will receive are not quickly-forgotten novels. They are works of outstanding interest and lifelong worth. Books which will become "foundation books" in the thoughtfully planned, constantly growing library you have always longed to acquire. Books of lasting importance, representing a liberal education in particular subjects of endless fascination—sumptuous editions of famous works on literature, art, music, history, science, travel.

America's Greatest Fine Book Bargains

Throughout the country, De Luxe Editions Club books are already famous for their luxurious bindings, rich contents, permanent value. In size they average 6" x 9½". Frequently they are even larger. Their pages, numbering from 500 to 600 to often over 1000, are in many cases gorgeously illustrated in color with paintings by the foremost artists; at other times with fine drawings and photographs. And every volume is complete, unabridged.

How are such values possible? Only because America's leading publishers are allowing the Club to use the original, first-edition plates of modern books—or, as in the case of "The Decameron," the plates of special, private editions. And contemporary authors have agreed to smaller royalties.

What are a few typical examples of these remarkable values? Recent De Luxe Editions have included such bargains as "Great Works of Art," formerly $5.00; Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales," in modern English, and with 25 full-page drawings in color by Rockwell Kent, formerly $25.00; "The Book of Old Ships," illustrated by the famous marine artist Gordon Grant, formerly $20.00; and "Stories of the Great Operas," formerly in three volumes at $10.50. Similar values will be offered in coming months—all at the standard low price (guaranteed to Members only) of $1.69 each, plus few cents postage.

SEND NO MONEY

We believe that you, like ten thousand others, will be glad to acquire a beautiful library of de luxe books at such remarkable savings. Surely you, too, wish to build up a permanent collection of volumes that will delight you always, and inspire your children in the years to come. Therefore we invite you to accept, free, a Charter Membership in The De Luxe Editions Club!

Send no money with the Special Gift-Book Coupon Below. Your free copy of "The Decameron" will be sent to you at once. With it will come the current month's bargain selection and the current issue of the Club's "Folio" a monthly magazine of interest to all book-lovers. "The Folio" is free, to Members only. Each month it tells unusual facts about the current Book Selection. And it reviews the coming month's selection as well. Thus Members always know in advance what the next book will be. Your subscription for "The Folio" will begin at once, without cost. Mail the coupon below!

LETTERS TO THE EDITORS

"We Like Peace"

Sir:

When I looked on page 66 and 67 of your July 26 issue, the Camera Overseas, I was amazed at the title and the descriptions about the Chinese-Japanese incident near Peiping. I am a Chinese. I must confess that I do not like what the Japanese warlord had done to us. But on the other hand we do not want to find war with Japan right now because we have not sufficient preparation; moreover, we like peace. That is the reason why we suffered so many aggressions from Japan without answer in the recent years. In the nearest incident the Japanese ask the opening of a small Chinese City at midnight and search for one of their soldiers who has lost during the night maneuvers which is not allowed by any treaty. What the Japanese means search is to enter any citizens home when they like and do what they want to do; they do that even at Shanghai. Chinese ought not to promise such a request and Japanese fires began. The Japanese soldier was found after the incident.

I do not know whether the American can bear or not if Japanese engaged in night maneuvers near Chicago and do what they like to do in that area. I do not think they can. Of course I must blame China that she has not put enough money to develop her arms. Most of the news about Orient come here from Japan and say that they are right anyhow.

I am sorry that I can not express my mind clearly in English language but I hope you can understand.

Vermont

Sir:

May I congratulate you upon your excellent selection of pictures depicting Vermont and Vermont life appearing in your issue of July 19. There is, however, a small error in one of your captions. On page 50 the reproduction of Luigi Luciani's Vermont Classic is said to have Mount Mansfield in right distance. But it's not Mount Mansfield, it's Camel's Hump, a peak some miles south of Mansfield.

Sir:

I have received a copy of the July 19 issue of your interesting publication in which you have found space, and a liberal one for the Vermont Country Doctor with me as the subject. Be assured of my grateful appreciation. It may be gratifying for you to know that the magazine is meeting with unlimited sales in this section of Vermont. I do not attribute this to the prominence given to me but for the worth of your esteemed publication.

TONGUE BITE GONE!

Exclusive Edgeworth Method

PROCESS-AGING

Is Changing Smokers' Ideas

WE guarantee Edgeworth will not bite the tongue. That is a strong statement, but we are willing to prove it at our risk.

The use of the finest Burley tobaccos alone will not prevent tongue bite. It's the processing that does it. As every tobacco expert knows, pipe tobacco can be rushed through the plant and save big sums of money. But Edgeworth is not made that way.

Our method is PROCESS-AGING—a process as vital as the aging of old wines. There are twelve required steps, each under scientific control. It takes 4 to 7 times as long as might seem necessary. But that's how we guarantee that Edgeworth will not bite the tongue.

We ask you to try it under our money-back guarantee. If Edgeworth bites your tongue, return it and get your money back. Isn't that fair enough?

NOTE: There are three kinds of Edgeworth for you to choose from:

1—Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed—a cool, long-burning tobacco preferred by seasoned pipe smokers.

2—Edgeworth Plug Slice—for the pipe smoker who likes to crumble the tobacco in his hands until it's just right for him.

3—Edgeworth Jr.—for the pipe (and cigarette) smoker—the same tobacco also Process-Aged, but cut for "roll your own" and manufactured to give a milder, more free-burning smoke.

Fine Families

Sirs:

Thanks very much for the splendid way you depicted our little City and Great Community (Aug. 2).

The pictures were very representative and fine, and your description of the pastoral scene on the Schumacher farm was almost biblical. And that's the kind of people they are. There must be many such fine families as the Schumachers, but appreciation is so seldom heard by those that are deserving.

Great Plains

Sirs:

As a reader of LIFE Magazine since last November I feel that some comment should be made on the space that you are giving the Great Plains in your magazine.

As a general rule we people in this part of the country are obliged to read, perhaps more than we care to, about Eastern and metropolitan places and such as that, and it is certainly very interesting to find that you give so much space to our part of the country.

I was very much interested in your write-up on the pageant held every summer at Bayard, Neb., known as the "Gift of God." And last week your pictures and article on Eureka, S. D. were interesting to me, inasmuch as I have traveled over that country and know that your story is true.

Wrong Scout

Sirs:

In the July 19 issue, you carried numerous photographs and items covering Boy Scout activities at Washington and on page 29 there was a picture of one of the boys entitled, "Tying Knots." This photograph happened to be that of my son Charles Simons, but through some error you carried the name as Charles Guinans. This did not particularly disturb the boy, but two grandparents and 22 uncles and aunts nearly had a fit.

Tabor's Coach

Sirs:

In the July 26 issue, your excellent picture and caption of the Tabor Academy crew, winner of the Henley cup this year, was a worthy testimonial to the record of a brilliant crew.

However, no mention was made of the coach, Roderick Beebe, Yale '08. This man, for several years a successful businessman, joined the Tabor faculty because of his love for working with boys. This year's crew is the result of his ever-improving technique.

I believe we should take our hats off to Roderick Beebe, the best schoolboy-crew coach in the country.

"The equipment is so good-looking that it is part of my furnishings and I use the top for flowers."

"THE BEST INVESTMENT I EVER MADE!"

HOME OWNERS TELL WHY THEY PREFER GENERAL ELECTRIC
AUTOMATIC HEAT AND AIR CONDITIONING

"I have built over 1,000 small houses in Albany and vicinity during the last 40 years. Since 1934 I have been installing G-E Oil Furnaces in my dwellings, which has in many cases sold them before completion. My four family apartment house was also fully rented long before it was finished. I consider G-E Oil Furnaces the best investment I ever made."
Karl E. Finke, Albany, N. Y., Builder

NO ONE NEEDS TO "LOOK AFTER" THE FURNACE. "I am away from home a lot and have found it quite upsetting to be worrying about a 'sick' furnace, frozen water pipes, and the state of my family's health."

"Now—thanks to my efficient G-E Oil Furnace—I am relieved of all that!"

"Heat and hot water are supplied automatically, and no one needs to 'look after' the furnace. The efficient G-E Thermal Control valve acts as our furnace man."

C. J. Baker, Detroit, Mich.

For photographic splendor, no sight in the world offers better subject material than Niagara Falls. An Italian photographer, Stefano Bricarelli, took this powerful and brooding picture from the deck of The Maid of the Mist. Such pictures rate high with periodicals in Europe, where Niagara is still the best-known U. S. landmark. Only the lower Manhattan sky line has in late years been encroaching upon its popularity. Erosion is gradually breaking down the Falls, leaving up the pile of ledge rock seen above

...EVERYBODY SNAPS NIAGARA FALLS

Foreigners took most of the pictures of Niagara Falls on these pages. They were among the millions of tourists from every part of the world who, camera in hand, converge on this, one of America's great natural wonders, one of its most imposing photographic subjects. These photographers come in cars and trailers over "The Honeymoon Trail" (U.S. Route No. 20), by Pullman and bicycle. Tourist trade—and with it Niagara Falls film footage—will this year equal or exceed 1929. Business began picking up in 1933, jumped 30% in 1936, will easily jump another 20% in 1937.

Despite sophisticated laughter aimed at Niagara honeymoons, they are still enormously popular, still make prized album photographs. Honeymooners may be snapped against billboards advertising "Niagara's Finest Honeymoon Cabins, Each with Private Bath and Shower." Or against "Honeymoon Canteen—Breakfast Served." One reason for this popularity is that Niagara is still one of Nature's grandest spectacles. Another is, rates are fairly cheap. You can get rooms for $2 a night and up. A ride around the beautiful gorge in The Maid of the Mist for 75¢ offers a photographer's paradise. Allowing $3 for camera, film and developing, you can have a complete two-week camera honeymoon at Niagara for $100.

600 weddings a year are performed at Niagara Falls, many of them tourists. This will probably be a record year, with 449 licenses issued in the first seven months. The wedding above was performed Aug. 4 on The Maid of the Mist, Niagara sight-seeing boat, as a publicity stunt. Oilskins protect bride, groom, preacher and witnesses from spray.

At the bottom of the Falls the spray is so heavy that visitors, who descend on an elevator, must rent oilskins. This young woman neglected to do so, hence must protect herself with her moleskin coat. Guides will lead her to the Cave of the Winds behind the Falls.

Cameras are carried by most Niagara tourists. Since rented raincoats at the Falls have no pockets, many cameras are ruined by mist and spray. On a single day at Niagara you can see every sort of camera equipment, running from 68¢ drugstore Brownies to $300 Leicas.

"The Maid of the Mist" has been ploughing up and down the Niagara River for 57 years. The trip lasts half an hour. It takes you up the magnificent gorge to the base of the American Falls, then to foot of the Horseshoe. Passengers get drenched if they don't wear raincoats.

Hot acid handled as easily, safely as water

A typical example of Goodrich improvement in rubber

STEEL MILLS and chemical plants used to have destructive acid puddles on floors, danger to workers from leaking acid, constant expense for repair of wood or brick acid handling equipment.

Then Goodrich invented a way to attach rubber to steel with an inseparable bond. With this as a starter, Goodrich engineers developed a rubber lining of layers of soft and hard rubber, applied this to steel with the new bond, and the first safe and leak-proof acid handling equipment was a reality.

Today, in hundreds of plants, this equipment plus other new types of Goodrich tank linings are handling even hot acid and violent nitric acid, as easily and safely as though they were water—saving all money formerly spent for tank repairs, ending acid danger to workers, improving production schedules.

Whether or not you use acid equipment, this Goodrich development is important to you who buy wisely because it illustrates the constant research which goes on at Goodrich. This research is always resulting in developments in belting, hose, and all Goodrich mechanical rubber goods, to make them last longer, serve their purpose better, and prove greater values for the buyer. The B. F. Goodrich Company, Mechanical Rubber Goods Division, Akron, Ohio.

More oil paintings, according to German Photographer Kurt Severin, are made in Niagara than in any other U. S. city.

Honeymoon photos before a canvas backdrop are a Niagara specialty. Pictures are finished in 10 minutes, cost 23c.

Last of the daredevils who went over the Falls in a rubber ball is Jean Lussier, Alsatian Olympic ski jumper, here selling post cards of himself in a small local museum. His announced leap for July 4 was halted by Niagara Falls officials.

An early wire-walker across the Falls was Clifford M. Calverley. At 69, he wants to repeat in October the stunt he performed 46 years ago. Daredevils everywhere want to swim, leap or swing across on wire to get their pictures in the papers.

HE'S A BIG BOY Now

The Brethren, However, Will Turn Him Into A SMOOTHIE—With Y-Fronts!

● Horace is a big boy now—going to college—but his clothes give him away! He still squirms. That's because his underwear doesn't fit him throughout. Smart collegians learn to rely on Coopers for comfort. They know Y-Fronts give a man the right foundation for a neat appearance. So, old son—if today you are a man, wear Y-Fronts!

Notice the Y-Fronts at the right. See how snugly they fit, how smooth they are with no excess material to bunch up and spoil your comfort and appearance. See how the construction of Y-Fronts, exclusive with Coopers, provides gentle masculine support.

Coopers elastic knit keeps undergarments close-fitting without binding. No bunching, no binding, no buttons.

There are varied lengths: Jockey, which is very brief; thigh; knee; calf; and ankle. Shirts—sleeveless or short sleeves. The garment 50 cents and up at your favorite men's store.

FANCY FABRICS AND COLORS

Y-Fronts in the 6" length and Jockey Shorts are available in ingrain color at 65c and 75c. In extra-fine white silk and Durene fabric at $1.00.

Your dealer has varied lengths for your selection. If you don't know his name, write us!

EGYPT GETS ITS FIRST KING IN 1,990 YEARS

The young man riding in the victoria (above) is Farouk I of Egypt, King of Mizr, Lord of Nubia and the Sudan, Sovereign of Kordofan and Darfur. On July 29, at Cairo, he was enthroned as the first independent king of Egypt since Cleopatra's brother, Ptolemy XIV, in 51 A. D. Farouk got his title from a treaty made with Great Britain last year soon after the death of his father, Fuad I, who promoted himself in 1922 from Sultan to King.

The Egyptian sitting beside King Farouk in the carriage is Premier Mustafa El Nahas Pasha who negotiated the treaty. The two are riding to Cairo's ancient El-Rifai Mosque on the day following the enthronement to pray at the tomb of Farouk's father.

Farouk is a blond, affable, easy-going youth with a flair for higher mathematics and archaeology. An only son with four younger sisters, he has been so thoroughly trained from childhood for kingship that the British press calls him "the most perfectly brought-up boy in the world." His tutors have all been English and he lived for six months in Surrey. Only part Egyptian, he is descended from an Albanian adventurer and one of Napoleon's dragoons.

EGYPT CELEBRATES THE ACCESSION OF ITS FIRST MODERN KING

NEW KING FAROUK IN GOLD COACH WITH EIGHT HORSES LEAVES ABDIN PALACE (BACKGROUND), PASSES UNDER FIRST TRIUMPHAL ARCH

The King is enthroned in Parliament, July 29. Cabinet ministers (right background), princes of the blood (foreground). Moslems do not use crowns, the State Sword had been mislaid.

A Cairo crowd puts on its usual wild display. Egyptians will cheer anybody for a day but Farouk's reign as a strictly constitutional monarch begins with general good feeling.

After the death of King Fuad I, who was not really a king, in April, 1936, Egypt was ruled by a Regency and capable Premier Nahas Pasha. Fuad's only son Farouk is 17½ years old by the Western calendar. But Egyptians count ages by the shorter lunar month and by this reckoning Farouk was 18 years old on July 29. Hence he was of age under Egyptian dynastic law. Returning to Egypt from England, he took over Egypt from the Regency on July 29. The Premier submitted his resignation too but was promptly reappointed by Farouk, being the leader of the Wafd Party, Egypt's overwhelming majority. Farouk has no crown, sceptre or Sword of State, but he was later given a Field Marshal's baton.

Mouth-veils are worn by smart Egyptians at enthrone ceremony. Second from right is Mme Nahas Pasha, wife of Egypt's Premier. Note Duchess of Windsor "corseted" styles.

In a carpeted box, Queen Mother Nash watched Egyptian troops being reviewed July 31. Front centre is her eldest daughter Fawziya, 16. Three other "F" daughters are not visible.

Egypt's Army includes tanks since the 1936 Military Alliance treaty with Britain, as well as camel corps. But the British Army, protecting the Suez Canal, still controls Egypt.

British Ambassador Sir Miles Lampson, 57, shown with his pretty 23-year-old Italian wife, remains the real behind-the-scenes ruler of Egypt, under the 1936 treaty with Britain.

Huge cotton crop topples prices; 12¢-per-lb. pegging is promised

On Aug. 9, as the clock ticked toward daylight-saving noon in the Eastern U. S., the eyes and ears of the cotton world turned eagerly toward Washington. In the great trading centres of New York, Liverpool, Alexandria, Bombay, Shanghai and Osaka, cotton men waited almost as anxiously as did growers and middlemen huddled around radios and market boards in the South. The U. S. Crop Reporting Board was about to release its first estimate of the U. S. cotton crop for the new year which began Aug. 1.

Arrived at through weeks of field surveys by volunteer farmers and days of laborious figure work by the Board's expert statisticians and estimators, Government crop estimates are among the world's most elaborately guarded secrets. The breathless moment of their release comes when the Crop Board's Chairman William F. Callander (shown at top left, standing by his Chief Statistician Francis H. Whitaker) places copies of the final figures face down in a row of booths, gives newshawks a signal to rush for telephones and telegraph keys.

The crucial cotton figure which flashed to a waiting world on Aug. 9 was 15,593,000 bales—forecasting the biggest crop since 1931. On U. S. markets prices promptly fell close to 10¢ per lb. At this thumping blow to their constituents' pocketbooks, Southern Congressmen who had been fighting President Roosevelt's program began to beseech him to renew the loans to growers which have pegged U. S. cotton prices in recent years. The President consented to peg the price at 12¢ per lb.—after the Senate guaranteed to give him a new crop-control bill next session.

Around these pages you see people who made up the cotton report and people directly affected by it.

Figures like these in a Birmingham broker's office were chalked up on cotton-market boards throughout the land when the Government Crop Reporting Board released its estimate of a bumper U. S. cotton crop for 1937. They predict a total crop of 15,593,000 bales (up more than 3,000,000 from last year), crop condition 81.3% of normal (against 72.3% year ago); and a record 223.3-lb. yield per acre. Reasons: excellent weather, improved seed, abandonment of poor land under the AAA

Men like these in the Memphis Cotton Exchange, one of the South's biggest spot markets, are the backbone of cotton. They include buyers for the mills, brokers who handle buying and selling orders, factors who finance growers and small dealers. Almost every sizable town in the Cotton Belt has a spot market. The men who trade there are actually transferring cotton for use. Big-scale speculating occurs only on the nation's three futures exchanges, which are located in New York (the world's largest), New Orleans and Chicago.

LIFE ON THE AMERICAN NEWSFRONT: SENATOR BLACK IS APPOINTED TO THE SUPREME COURT

after a Democratic "harmony dinner" fails to produce harmony among divided Senate majority

On Aug. 10 in Washington's Raleigh Hotel night club, a "dove of peace" (left) fluttered above the heads of 60-odd Democratic Senators assembled at a "harmony dinner" in honor of their new Majority Leader, Kentucky's Alben W. Barkley (No. 1 in picture below). A better symbol of the banqueters' tempers would have been the brooding nighthawk lately perched on a Capitol column outside the Senate chamber (lower right).

Besides the contents of the friendly bottles which strewed every table, almost the only thing which contributed to harmony at the dinner was the absence of President Roosevelt, who significantly declined to attend. As the banqueters sipped and munched, biggest U. S. news was being made by the new civil war raging between the President and the rebel Democrats, chiefly Southerners, who have now definitely seceded from the New Deal.

Observers who blame the Democratic split entirely on the impetuosity of the President's reform program forget that the conservatism of the South, rooted in tradition and the land, is one of the great solid facts of U. S. life. One of the surest signs that the Depression is over is the way Southern Congressmen, uprooted by hard times, are now scurrying back to cover.

Check by jowl at the banquet sat New Dealers who were trying to enact the President's five-point reform program, and Rebels who were doing their potent best to wreck it. Four days before, the Rebels had gutted the Administration Housing Bill, on the ground that it favored New York over their States (see next page). Day after that, they had laughed as their leader and hero, Vice President Garner of Texas (No. 2 below), trickily clinched their Court Bill victory by declaring their revision of it passed by "unanimous consent" before anybody had a chance to object. They were preparing to pass not the sugar-quota bill which the President wanted but one which he had openly threatened to veto. Day after the dinner the Rebels gloated at a motion to consider an antilynching bill, convinced that Franklin Roosevelt's signature on such a measure would alienate what is left of his Southern support.

The Southerners scored a victory when the President, after first refusing to put the Treasury further into the red by at least $150,000,000, consented to peg cotton prices at 12¢ per lb. (see p. 20).

The President's only backslap at the Rebels came on Aug. 12. To fill the Supreme Court vacancy left by Willis Van Devanter he nominated almost the only Deep South Senator who remains fervently loyal to the New Deal, Hugo La Fayette Black of Alabama (see opposite page and No. 6 below).

Senator Black, who made his name and fame by heading sensational investigations of air and ship-mail contracts and of lobbying, has lately queered himself with Southerners by his sponsorship of the Wages & Hours Bill and his last-ditch fight for the Court Bill. He and the President got a prompt rebuke when hostile Senators denied him the customary Senatorial courtesy of immediate confirmation. Thus defied by 1937 tempers was a Senate tradition which had remained unbroken since Northern Senators delayed confirmation of President Cleveland's nominee to the Supreme Court in 1887, Senator Lucius Quintus Cincinnatus Lamar of Mississippi.

A study in discord is this historic portrait of the Democratic Senators' "harmony dinner" August 10. Concealed by these bland countenances are clashing political passions which have embittered hearts, strained or broken many an old friendship and loyalty. Back to back, dramatising the Party conflict, sit Alabama's Black (6), who was about to be rewarded for his ardent New Dealing by a nomination to the Supreme Court; and New York's Copeland (7) who, day before, had sought to further his anti-New Deal candidacy for Mayor of New York by charging President Roosevelt with having set up a "personal dictatorship." Other such seating tricks put Mississippi's apostate Harrison (3) beside Tennessee's still-loyal McKellar (4); Texas' rebel Connally (9) beside Indiana's Minton (8) reliably reported to have been the President's second choice for the Supreme Court. Angered by a turn of fortune on the Senate floor next day, Honor Guest Barkley (1) ungratefully barked at Oklahoma's Lee (5): "That was a hell of a harmony dinner we had last night."

LIFE ON THE AMERICAN NEWSFRONT: TENEMENT TRAGEDY IS SENATE OBJECT LESSON

Torrential rains fell on New York City, Aug. 11. On a cobblestone alley in a dreary little Staten Island valley they flooded the cellar of a 50-year-old factory which had been converted into a six-flat tenement. Six families-on-relief were living there at $12 per month each. As police prepared to rescue the marooned shant-dwellers, suddenly, with a mighty sigh, the rotten old building caved in, crumbled into its cellar (above). Out of the molder, splintered wreckage, Mrs. Marie Corbi (below) was one of only three victims pulled alive. The other 10, including a policeman, were smashed and smothered to death.

This catastrophe pointed an awful object lesson to rebellious Southern Senators who only five days before had risen to combat the housing bill being pushed by New York's Robert F. Wagner. Senator Wagner proposed to lend $700,000,000 of Federal money for razing of slums, erection of safe & sanitary low-rent dwellings. The Southern Senators called his plan extravagant, declared they could not see how it would help these States. By an amendment setting building allowances at $1,000 per room, they fixed the bill so that it could not help New York, where $1,750 per room is the city's figure for slum reconstruction.

NEW YORK POLICE SOLVE THE CASE OF THE MAID AND THE MOUNTIE

On July 19, a coquettish little French maid named Irma Louise Pradier quit her job at Manhattan's Mount Sinai Hospital, drew about $1,000 savings out of her banks, told her friends that she was going to elope to California with a handsome policeman. Early next morning her dead body was found lying beside the Harlem River Speedway in upper Manhattan. She had been shot twice with a police .38 revolver. Found in her pockets were six lumps of sugar. She had been in the habit of feeding lump sugar to mounted policemen's horses. A taxi driver promptly revealed that he had taken Irma Pradier's trunk to Grand Central Terminal day before, while she followed with her two bags in a new pea-green sedan driven by a tall, handsome man with brown hair.

With these clues, New York's efficient police force set about determining which one of their number had committed the crime. First steps were to check the records of all the city's 18,000 policemen to see which ones had been off duty July 19-20, and to check the ownership of all green sedans in the city. The search then proceeded as shown on this page.

1 The murdered maid's money and two bags were missing when her body was discovered beside Harlem Speedway. But the six cubes of sugar in her pockets pointed toward a horse, probably a policeman's.

2 Such a horse was this one, ridden daily at 40th St. & Madison Ave. by Patrolman Arthur H. Chalmers, Troop B, Mounted Squad 1.

3 Tall, handsome, brown-haired "Mountie" Chalmers, 34, married and father of two, was on vacation July 17 to Aug. 3.

4 On Aug. 7, Chalmers confessed when fellow officers found a bullet hole in the seat of his new pea-green Buick sedan. He said Irma Pradier had tried to shoot him when he refused to elope, that he had shot her accidentally in the struggle.

5 On Aug. 9, Mrs. Vera Lorden revealed that she had gone vacationing with Chalmers after the shooting, toured eight days in the green sedan.

6 Mrs. Lorden, a waitress who served Chalmers at a restaurant near 40th & Madison, was hurried off to jail as a material witness.

7 Mrs. Lorden's husband, though fired from his room-clerk job on account of publicity, bailed her out, promised to stick by her "100%."

8 Meantime the police, equipped with a new electromagnetic device, were futilely dragging the Harlem River at the spot where Chalmers said he had tossed in the gun which killed Irma Pradier. He denied that he had stolen her money.

JOSEPH J. CANAVAN

Commissioner Canavan and his two fellow members of the New York State Board of Parole have been widely, though ignorantly, blamed for the epidemic of sex crimes in New York City. One of the most brutal was the murder of 8-year-old Paula Magnagna by Lawrence Marks. Like most sex criminals, Marks was a repeater. When Commissioner Canavan found the Press labeling him a "paroled convict" he sharply pointed out that Marks had been released by a State Supreme Court Judge, over the Board's protest. The Commissioner recommended special institutions for the confinement of sex perverts. He was partially backed up by Mayor LaGuardia who ordered that sex convicts be tested for sanity before release. "And," warned the Mayor, "God help the judge who turns one of these men loose if anything happens afterward."

THEATRE GOES "STRAW HAT" IN SUMMER

Mt. Kisco is a grooming ground for movie stars

When summer heat wilts Broadway, the theatre moves to the country and has its "straw-hat" season. At least a dozen summer theatres on seashores and in resorts have achieved distinction for finesse of production and, sometimes, for new plays or new talent. In the top bracket is the Westchester Playhouse at Mt. Kisco, N. Y., a structure whose previous function is betrayed by its hay pulley and its ventilator (left). This year Mt. Kisco shone with imported brilliance from Hollywood. Among its cinema celebrities are Frances Farmer (The Toast of New York, see LIFE, Aug. 2), Henry Fonda and the exotic Anna May Wong, seen below wading into a swimming pool after a rehearsal for Princess Turandot. But none of Mt. Kisco's summer stars bear closer watching than the lovely young girl on the opposite page.

From Hollywood stardom comes Frances Farmer to rehearse with Alan Hewitt for Al Mrs. Beam's. This is her first theatre appearance in the East.

A girl in pants works on the Mt. Kisco scenery crew. Actors, decorators, directors work longer and harder in "straw-hat" theatres than on Broadway.

Mark Twain's granddaughter, Nina Gabriłowitsch, acts bits at Mt. Kisco, swims between times. She is the daughter of the late symphony conductor.

Scarlett O'Hara?

The smiling young lady above is Margaret Tallchet. A year ago she was a society debutante in Dallas. When she first went to Hollywood, she could get nothing better than a job as typist in Paramount's publicity department. Carole Lombard saw her, liked her, wangled a small part for her in A Star Is Born. Now 21, she is being farmed out by Selznick International to learn acting in the Mt. Kisco summer theatre. After that, according to Hollywood "dope," she will play Scarlett O'Hara in Gone with the Wind.

PROVINCETOWN HAS A THEATRE TRADITION (continued)

The most famous of all summer theatres began in an old fishhouse on the wharf (left). A group of artists summering in Provincetown, Mass. met at the home of the late great Communist John Reed, decided to write and give their own plays. Among them were Novelist Susan Glaspell, Artist Robert Edmond Jones, Story Writer Wilbur Daniel Steele. Novelist Mary Heaton Vorse lent them her wharf fishhouse. A lanky Irish lad named Eugene O'Neill gave them some one-act plays. Eventually they moved to a stable in New York's McDougal St. Thus started the career of America's greatest playwright and the theatre which contributed most to authentic U.S. stage literature. Young actors carry on the tradition in a rebuilt Wharf Theatre at Provincetown.

LOW TIDE AT PROVINCETOWN THEATRE WHARF

A theatre school for novices attracts youngsters to Provincetown's Wharf Theatre. They pay $125 tuition for an eight-weeks course, get parts in two free student productions. They are here studying radio-broadcasting technique under Jean Paul King, N. B. C. announcer.

Scene construction is a part of every Wharf Theatre apprentice's course. On the stage they sew, paint, nail together a set for the next Provincetown play. Through the proscenium arch you can see the simple barnlike structure of the theatre's seating space beyond.

DENNIS PLAYHOUSE WAS A CAPE COD CHURCH

At Dennis, on Cape Cod, there stood for many years a strange dilapidated old building. At various stages of its history it had been a church, a school, a slaughterhouse, a stable and a garage. In 1927, Raymond Moore, a young painter from Provincetown, bought it for $400 and converted it into what is today the popular and successful Cape Playhouse. It now represents a total investment of $80,000. Its Gothic windows and natural-wood interior are reminders of its pious Cape Cod heritage; but on its stage have trod a good score of America's leading actors. They include Ina Claire, Ruth Gordon, Judith Anderson, Grace George, Laura Hope Crews, Bette Davis and Robert Montgomery. Doris Nolan (Top of the Town) was this year's top attraction.

THE SUMMER THEATRE TURNS TO STOCK

Though summer theatres in the U. S. are more than a quarter-century old, not till 1930 did they really come to life. A depression-struck Broadway then discovered in these converted barns, schoolhouses and churches a cheap testing laboratory for untried plays. Actors could be got for room and board, electricians without benefit of union pay, scenic artists for the love of it. So many playhouses blossomed in the woods that by 1934 Variety, the showman's bible, listed 105 bona fide "straw hat" theatres prepared to present 135 new plays. Script and talent scouts swarmed out from Manhattan to make discoveries.

Few were made. Some new personalities appeared on these makeshift stages, but not many. Some summer plays reached Broadway, but very few. Good summer plays were often ruined by hasty production. As a laboratory, summer theatres lost caste. Most of them lost money. This year finds last year's number reduced by 40%, the relatively small number of tryouts cut by a third.

The 40-odd rural showhouses that remain have changed their tack. They are now putting themselves on a firmer financial, if less artistic, basis. For the unknown quantity of new plays they are substituting the pulling power of such trusted Broadway successes as Tonight at 8-30, Lyndrata, The Front Page and The Petrified Forest. Instead of new faces, they rely on Broadway and Hollywood names. New talent consists largely of Hollywood fledglings, farmed out by the movie companies to acquire technique for potential stardom. Talent scouts still roam the outlying barns, but the pickings are scarce. Gradually the summer theatre is being geared to replace the vanished U. S. stock company of pre-War days.

Summer-theatre audiences vary according to their communities. Some, like those at the old Wharf Theatre, Provincetown, are frankly informal, even a bit Bohemian (top picture). They come in slacks and beach wear and like the theatre's experiments. At the Cape Playhouse, Dennis, theatre-goers are mainly good upper-middle-class "summer folk," with a sprinkling of wealth from "south of Hyannis" (middle picture). They dress in comfortable but conventional summer togs, react with comfort and ease to smart Broadway comedies. The Westchester Playhouse in Mt. Kisco is filled with intelligent New York commuters (bottom picture), who know good plays. Audiences at Newport are social register (left). Evening dress is virtually obligatory. Response is cool, reserved, very well-bred.

That ancient war farce, Lysistrata, gets good mounting and acting at the soundly professional Westchester Playhouse in Mt. Kisco, N. Y. Westchester specializes in big names.

Two Broadway names, Margaret Anglin and Stiano Braggiotti, make the best of a mild new comedy, Retreat From Folly, at the Casino Theatre, Newport, R. I., before a society audience.

A Hollywood actress, Doris Nolan, delights Dennis, Cape Cod, with crisp playing in Ways and Means, one-acter by Noel Coward presented on Broadway last winter (see LIFE, Dec. 7)

A new comedy, Stork on Skis, is tried at the Wharf Theatre, Provincetown, with Leona Powers, an accomplished trouper. With rewriting and a new title, it may reach Broadway.

TO FLY TRANSPORT PLANE

You operate 145 instruments

The pilot of a modern transport airplane flies by instruments. Within his expert reach are 145 dials, levers and switches necessary to guide these mammoth craft safely across the U. S. On these two pages you see the panel board of one of American Airlines' Douglas DC-3s, 21-passenger ships. The picture shows 96 instruments. The other 49 gadgets are above the windshield or behind and to the sides of the pilot seats. The dials depict in figures every movement of the plane. The levers, pedals and switches control motors, ailerons, elevators, stabilizers and rudder. The pilots use 130 instruments during each flight, 15 in emergencies only. To be a transport pilot takes at least six years' training

Vacuum gauge operates automatic pilot for level flying

Eight-day clock has only four figures on its dial

Altimeter indicates height of the plane above sea level

Artificial horizon dial tells the pilot whether his plane is in level flight. Cocked wings cock indicator

Bank & turn indicator marks angle of wings during turns.

Elevator-control column moves back and forth with aileron-control wheel making the ship climb or descend

Indicator to give plane speed through air, not true speed

This dial shows the plane's angle of climb or of descent

Tachometers mark revolutions per minute of both engines.

Manifold-pressure gauge for the left engine. It measures the pressure from the supercharger to the engine.

Pedal controls wing flaps which slow plane when landing.

Synchroscope shows if motors are revolving at equal rate.

Selector valve enables the pilot to feed the two motors with gas from any one of the four fuel tanks

Control for the rudder "fletner," which compensates for ship's tendency to veer off, holds it on course. . . .

This switch turns on and shuts off the automatic pilot

Propellor governor determines pitch of propellor blades on left engine (corresponds in action to automobile gears)

Directional gyrocompass of the automatic pilot maintains the directional stability, keeps the plane on its course.

Propellor governor sets pitch of right propellor blades. Pitch is changed for climbs, landings, cruising Manifold-pressure gauge for the right engine. It measures the pressure from the supercharger to the engine

This master compass indicates the magnetic direction

Second pilot's eight-day clock,

Bank-and-club gyro marks climb, descent or level flight.

This gauge indicates whether the oil pressure is sufficient to force retractable wheels down to a landing position.

This dual thermometer marks temperature outside plane.

Second pilot's aileron-control.

Engine primer pump for starting motors in all weather.

Second pilot's elevator column.

Exhaust analyzer checks air and gas mixture in motors.

Dial marks fuel in the tanks.

Cylinder-head temperature gauges for both the motors.

The carburetor heat controls for the left and right motors.

Throttles governing power applied through both motors.

Selector valve operating pump which feeds fuel to motor

Control for the aileron "flitner," which stabilizes the plane.

These knobs determine volume of sound emitted by radio.

Second pilot's rudder pedals direct the course of the plane

Selector valve for the engine fuel tanks. With this the pilot can shut off the left or right engine instantaneously

PAN AMERICAN AIRWAYS WINS COLLIER TROPHY FOR PACIFIC PLANE SERVICE

On August 6, Pan American Airways' able, suave President Juan Terry Trippe flew to Washington, shook hands with President Franklin D. Roosevelt, marched off with the massive Collier Trophy. Thus Pan American acquired U. S. aviation's highest award for the "establishment of the transpacific airline and the successful execution of extended overwater navigation and the regular operation thereof." Translated into statistics this meant that within the last year the four Pacific Clippers completed 70 round trips between San Francisco and Manila, flew 6,000,000 passenger miles without an accident, or even a canceled flight.

In April 1935, Pan American began test flights to Hawaii. Simultaneously air bases were erected on the barren coral atolls of Midway and Wake Islands. Radio and meteorological stations were strung across the Pacific. In November 1935, the Clippers began flying the 8,000-mile route carrying mail and express. Eleven months later a passenger service was inaugurated and an extension service to Hong Kong, China, was added. Since then 510 persons (240 women) have paid $930 apiece to make the five-day transpacific trip by air. On these two pages you see the first complete set of pictures showing what these 510 passengers saw on their flight.

- 1 Weather forecasts are given to flight officers at Alameda Airport immediately before the westbound take-off. These determine the course of flight, the maximum payload, the necessary fuel load and available cabin space.
- 2 Position reports are radioed by the Clipper every half hour during flight. This officer receives messages, plots the ship's location.

- 3 Every Wednesday at 3 p. m. crowds gather at Alameda Airport to see the Clipper off on its 2,400-mile flight to Honolulu. In 30 seconds the four motors lift the 28-ton craft into the air.

- 4 Honolulu is reached after 18 hours of flight most of which is made during darkness while the passengers sleep. After a night's layover the Clipper leaves at dawn for Midway Island. Navy ships are in the background.

- 5 Debarkation occurs Friday afternoon at Midway's pier. The Clipper is moored to a barge in the lagoon, its passengers ferried ashore.

- 6 This is Midway's only street. The island boasts two cars, one of which is above. Residents live in comfort, wear few clothes.

- 7 Pan American Airways Inn at Midway accommodates 50 guests. Some are vacationists "getting away from it all." Clipper passengers stay here overnight. Goonies, found only on Midway, entertain visitors.

- 8 The main dining room of Midway's Inn is comfortably cool. Menus at these transpacific hotels are radio-controlled in order to avoid duplication and monotony for through passengers on their five-day westward flight.

9 Servicing the Clipper at Midway. At each island the ship is inspected at night and prepared for the following day's flight. Parts of the wings open up to give footing to the crew of mechanics checking the 950-h.p. engines.

10 Third station is Wake, an island overgrown with tropic shrubbery. Having crossed International Date Line, the plane reached Wake Sunday instead of Saturday.

11 Pride of Wake is this railway which carries all supplies from the landing pier to the settlement. As few ships come here, Clippers bring in perishables.

12 A passenger unpacks for the night in a Wake hotel bedroom. Her $950 ticket includes all meals and hotel accommodations during the flight. Wake was uninhabited until 1913 when Pan American Airways took over, built a modern air station.

13 At dawn Monday the Clipper takes off from Wake (above) for the 1,560-mile flight southwestward to Guam, which is reached early that afternoon.

14 The base at Sumay, Guam, is the fourth and last overnight station. Here you see a part of Pan American's fuel supply shipped in for its Clippers.

15 Passengers at ease on the porch of the Pan American Inn at Sumay. While travelers approach the island by plane (150 m.p.h.) the principal mode of local transport for natives is still by patient, plodding water buffalo (3 m.p.h.).

16 Radioman Theodore Krutky, at Sumay, operates transmitter and receiving sets by which he talks to the officers of the Clipper ships.

17 The last station is Manila, reached Tuesday evening after the 1,530-mile flight from Guam. Here the Clipper is pulled out of the water after its five-day flight.

BOEING BUILDS LARGEST U. S. FLYING BOAT FOR TRANSATLANTIC SERVICE IN 1938

DURALUMIN WING SPAR FOR THE ATLANTIC CLIPPER IS 33 FT. LONG

For ten years intrepid aviators have lifted planes, heavily loaded with gasoline, from European and American airports to swing them out over the Atlantic. Some reached their destination but many did not. Transatlantic flights are passing from the hands of daredevil prospectors to those of commercial operators. Next year unless all present signs fail you will be able to fly from New York to London in 24 hours for $500. Responsible in the U. S. for this final step in oceanic flying are Pan American Airways, which will operate planes, and Boeing Aircraft Co. which is now constructing them. (Britain's Imperial Airways will operate a similar service—see LIFE, July 19.)

The first of Pan American's Atlantic Clipper flying boats is now being assembled at the Boeing plant (see below and left) in Seattle, Wash. When completed this fall, it will be the largest plane ever manufactured in the U. S.—twice the size of the Clippers which pioneered the Pacific (see pages 36-37). Its 88,000 lb. of duralumin frame, motors, instruments and equipment will cost $1,000,000. When test flights are completed five sister ships will be assembled by Boeing. Each ship is powered by four 1,500-h. p. twin row Wright Cyclones and will have a flight range of 5,000 miles. For a diagrammatic drawing in color of this monster ship, turn the page.

THE LADIES' WASHROOM HAS LEATHER-COVERED STOOLS FOR PRIMPING

ATLANTIC CLIPPER HAS MODERN INTERIORS

TRANSATLANTIC LOWER BERTH

As befits anything so modern as a transatlantic passenger plane, the Atlantic Clipper will have modern furniture, designed under direction of Pan American engineers. In furnishing, the engineers' main concern was with weight and soundproofing. Weight is kept down by using duralumin furniture, light-weight fabrics, window-panes made of a plastic lighter than glass. For soundproofing, walls are covered with fabric which has to be porous so that sound waves will pass through instead of being reflected. It must also be strong and elastic because it is fastened to the walls by snaps and removed for cleaning. Mohair with its loose weave was chosen for this purpose. The involved matter of selecting colors was done largely by Howard Ketcham, New York color expert. Clipper colors had to be bright to reflect light and make the plane seem spacious and airy. On the other hand, they could not be too bright because the glare above the clouds would then be uncomfortable. Colors should not tire the eyes by being too gay and varied but they should not tire them by being too monotonous. The colors finally chosen for major use are "skyline" green, "Miami sand" beige and a shade called "Pan American blue." The Clipper's seven compartments will seat 60 and sleep 40 passengers. Others can nap in the lounge which seats 15 and is also the reading and dining room. Meals, which are prepared before take-off and kept warm in the plane's galley, are served here in shifts. For a cross-section picture in color of the Atlantic Clipper, turn the page.

THE GALLEY, FINISHED IN DURALUMIN, HOLDS TWO STEWARDES

THIS IS THE CLIPPER SHIP THAT WILL FLY ATLANTIC

The 86,000 lb. Atlanta Clipper which will carry Pan American passengers across the Atlantic is shown here in cross section. At the bow of the plane (above) is the Anchor and Gear Room, which also holds a mooring post which slides out when the hatch is opened. From this room a gangway leads up to the Bridge which is entirely lined with black to eliminate glare. Here two pilots handle controls which fly the plane. Back of the Bridge is Navigation and Radio Room, directive brain of the ship. Here are (left to right) the radio officer, the flight navigator and the flight engineer, all of whom have telephone communication with the bridge. Captain's Office is just behind, curtained off. In back of this is the Cargo Hold, whose main contents will probably be mail.

Below, are the Galley and Dining Lounge. Stretched along the length of the ship are several Passenger Compartments. The one at the ship's tail is a De Luxe Compartment corresponding roughly to a ship's cabin suite. At the bottom of the plane, pumps force gasoline stored in sponsons up to the wing tanks and engines. On the plane's very top, showing in cross section at right, is the Navigation Turret from which position is checked by sun and stars.

RITZ GOES TO A PICNIC

There they go. This is the second package of Ritz our hungry sun-bathers have consumed. And competition for the rest of these taste-teasing crackers is keen.

Let this be a lesson! When you go picnicking take plenty of Ritz. They add such a zest to salad, cheese and spreads that a basket lunch tastes like a banquet.

Reward to the winner. The young lady behind the screen has just given her husky opponent a severe trouncing. The gallery pays tribute by offering Ritz—her favorite cracker. And is the defeated gentleman unhappy? No! For in one minute he's going to get a long, cold beverage and plenty of Ritz for himself. He knows just as all America does that nothing tastes so good with all drinks, as golden, nut-like Ritz.

Three's never a crowd—when the third party is Ritz! To paraphrase Mr. Khayyam —“a summer sun, a box of Ritz and thou”—is fun enough for any young man. These “give me another” crackers are good companions for any summer outing.

Amateur Golf Championship at Oregon Club honors the late Chandler Egan

CHANDLER EGAN

When the U.S. Golf Association chose Alderwood Country Club, 6 miles north of Portland, Ore., for the 41st National Amateur Championship tournament beginning Aug. 23, it was paying tribute to a man whose death last year at 52 cut short one of the most astonishing careers in U.S. golf. At 20 Chandler Egan, while still a Harvard student, won his first national title, kept it the next year. Four times he won the Western Championship — first when he was 18. In his late twenties, Egan went to Oregon and apparently forsook golf for fruitgrowing. But in 1915 he started to stage a great comeback by winning the Pacific Northwest Championship. At 50 he was so good again that he was included on the American Walker Cup team. Because he had long hoped to bring the Nationals to his home course at Alderwood Country Club, selection of this links for this year's tournament is as much a memorial to Chandler Egan as any granite slab.

Its selection also makes excellent sense golfwise, for the 6,601-yard course, revamped and improved for the tournament, is full of tricky hazards calculated to test the mettle of even such crack players as Johnny Goodman, Johnny Fischer and Scotty Campbell. Notably difficult are holes 2, 3, 9, 11, 12 and 16 (see map above). On No. 2 (449 yards, par 4) unless the drive is perfectly placed, it will go out of bounds on the right or down a steep bank into the rough or water on the left. No. 3 (125 yards, par 3) has a canal, a tricky green flanked by traps and a steep embankment. No. 9 (159 yards, par 3) calls for a No. 5-iron shot through trees to a small green. No. 11 (182 yards, par 3) is also short but tough, with a sand hazard and a small elevated green. No. 12 (440 yards, par 4) is tricky with trees, traps and sand hazard. No. 16 (207 yards) is an outstanding 3-par hole, calling for a No. 1-iron or spoon shot diagonally across a water hazard. Easiest hole is No. 8 (312 yards, par 4).

Best shot in the club's 13-year history was made in the 1932 Pacific Northwest Championship by Winner Chandler Egan: double eagle on 5-par 501 yard No. 1.

Hole-in-one tournament produces two aces

Since 1932, the N. Y. World-Telegram has annually held a hole-in-one tournament for golfers with an accredited hole-in-one on their score cards. Each entrant has five tries. First year none of the 217 players made the cup. In 1933 Jack Hagen, first of 340 to tee off, sank an ace on his first ball. Next three years 1,569 players drove 7,845 balls without an ace. On Aug. 9, first day of the 1937 event, Franklin A. Schriver, 40, lawyer, of Chester, N. Y., on his second shot drove just short of the 195-yd. fifth hole of New Jersey's Forest Hill Field Club, saw it roll into the hole. Next day T. Arthur Menzel, 39, of Stamford, Conn., drove his fourth shot just beyond the 145-yd. ninth hole of Westchester's Leewood Golf Club, saw it spin back into the hole. To both men went "hole-in-one" signet rings.

Summer Sun and a soaking shower are bad news for Hair!

Protect yours with Vitalis and the "60-Second Workout"

AFTER YOUR hard-played 36 holes of golf, your strenuous sets of tennis—it's refreshing to step under your shower and relax. But that exhilarating spray of water does its full share to damage the looks of your hair.

For after the summer sun has baked your unprotected hair dry and brittle—your shower washes away the vital oils that Nature gave you—leaving your hair lifeless.

And that's where Vitalis and the "60-Second Workout" step in to aid and help you. Apply Vitalis to the scalp with a brisk massage. Feel the fine tingle as Vitalis gets in its good work and its pure vegetable oil comes to the rescue of your oil-depleted hair. Your circulation is roused—your sun-parched scalp "comes to life"—your hair takes on a rich, lustrous look. 50 seconds to rub, 10 seconds to comb—that's the "60-Second Workout."

With Vitalis every hair is firmly in place—just the way you want it—without a trace of that very objectionable "patent-leather" look.

Don't let the hazards of sun and water wreck your hair. Whatever you do—play golf or ride, swim or sail, enjoy it to the full—but help keep your hair lustrous and handsome with Vitalis and the famous "60-Second Workout."

REAL MOTHER VS. FOSTER MOTHER

Donald Horst's case is settled amid tears

In Chicago, the Case of Donald Horst unfolded as the month's best human-interest story. It all began when Mrs. Otto Horst reported the "kidnaping" of her small "son" Donald. Two days later Donald was turned over to police by John Regan and Sylvia Lavin. They were Donald's real parents. When Donald was born two and one-half years ago, a physician told the unmarried couple that he knew of a home for the child. Mrs. Otto Horst thereupon went into a fake confinement, the doctor falsified a birth certificate and the Horsts proudly announced the birth of a son. Not until last month did the real parents learn who had the child.

It looked like a tough problem for any court to decide and Donald was sent to an orphanage. As he lay abed with a fever, Mrs. Lavin voluntarily signed papers giving her son to the Horsts. "Donald is going back to a better home than we could give him," his real mother said. Then she burst into tears as grateful Mrs. Horst (at left, above) tried to console her.

The real parents, John Regan and Sylvia Lavin, had Donald only a few hours.

Donald's guardian, during the dispute, was a nun at St. Vincent's Orphanage.

The emotional reunion of Donald and his foster parents occurred in Judge Edmund Jarecki's court on Aug. 10. Mrs. Horst rushes to embrace the child whom friends thought was hers while Mr. Horst waits his turn. Donald is on Judge Jarecki's lap.

IT BUDGETS THE OIL... WASTES NOT A SINGLE DROP

Williams Oil-O-Matic goes all the way to provide comfortable, constant, completely automatic heat at low cost. Its patented Metering Device literally doles out fuel oil drop by drop, precisely regulating the quantity of fuel to be burned regardless of temperature changes or varying viscosity of oil. This sentinel of economy is an exclusive Oil-O-Matic feature—one of the reasons for Oil-O-Matic's outstanding thriftiness through year after year of use.

NEITHER MEN NOR MACHINES WORK WELL IN GREAT HEAT. NO PART OF OIL-O-MATIC IS INSIDE THE FIREBOX

Just as the flame belongs inside the furnace, the mechanical parts of an oil burner belong outside the furnace. In a Williams Oil-O-Matic installation, there is no part inside the firebox. Thus motor and all working parts are protected from the deteriorating effects of extreme heat and are always accessible for adjustment.

Learn these simple, basic facts that make Williams Oil-O-Matic the world's most economical automatic heat!

IT MIXES LOW-COST FUEL OIL WITH AIR AT LOW PRESSURE! ALL THE OIL BURNS

Two more Oil-O-Matic "exclusives" are Low Pressure Atomization and the patented Diffuser. They do away with the pin-point fuel-feed openings of ordinary burners, that dribble and clog. There's less wear and tear, thus longer life. Atomized oil is blended perfectly with air for complete combustion—no heat-waste-up-the-chimney from too much air, no sooty, half burned oil from too little air.

IT'S THE WORLD'S LARGEST SELLING OIL BURNER BECAUSE IT'S THE WORLD'S BEST

No man enjoys sandwiching his day's work between sessions of coal shoveling, grate shaking and ash-hauling. No woman wants to be a day nurse to a furnace. See your Williams Oil-O-Matic dealer. Learn how inexpensively you can enjoy "heat without work or worry." Why wait? Here's the world's finest automatic heat, still available at the lowest prices in Oil-O-Matic history.

GEARED TO THE ROAD

... MEANS Safety!

FOR YOUR FAMILY

Safe as modern cars are — well as traffic is regulated — accidents can still happen. And many of them happen because somebody couldn't stop soon enough.

Stopping — even on wet slippery pavements — is not a problem for Miller Deluxe Geared-to-the-Road Tires.

See how the sharp-edged blocks of this famous tread bite into the road from all angles — how the rugged cross bars have a gear-like grip that affords real protection against slipping and skidding! This extra safety feature lasts, too, for the tread is made of the very toughest kind of rubber.

And you just know that such a fine tread means an equally fine body beneath it, with added strength wherever unusual strains take place — and extra protection against road shocks and blowouts that might cause accidents.

Miller Deluxe Geared-to-the-Road Tires are built to meet the severest of driving conditions. Naturally they are a safe selection for you and your family wherever you go.

Look for the sign "Miller Tires." It is your guide to both safety and long mileage.

THE CAMERA OVERSEAS: INTOLERANT SERBS MOURN THEIR MARTYR PATRIARCH

Hysteria swept the sidewalks of Yugoslavia's capital of Belgrade as the Patriarch Varnava's coffin passed. These are Serbs of the Orthodox faith, lashed to a frenzy by priests against the Government's concessions to Catholics.

One trouble with post-war Yugoslavia is that Serbs of the Orthodox Church rule Croats and Slavs of the Roman Catholic Church. Two years ago Yugoslavia signed a treaty with the Catholic Church to satisfy the Catholic Croats and Slavs. This infuriated the Serbian Orthodox Church. On July 19, its leaders climaxed two years of agitation by parading with the pious through Belgrade despite a police ban. The churchmen marched safely through two lines of police but when they collided with the third, they were clubbed with truncheons and rifle butts. Into Parliament rushed a deputy crying, "They are beating down the princes of our church."

Literally beaten down with a concussion of the brain was Bishop Simeon of Shabatz (lower left) who made the mistake of raising his silver cross just as a rifle butt hit it against his head.

On July 24, the Lower House ratified the Catholic treaty and a few hours later, His Holiness Varnava, Patriarch of the Orthodox Church died, presumably of poisoning. Next day the Church excommunicated Premier Stoyadnovich, his Cabinet and all deputies who had voted for the Concordat's ratification. On July 29, Varnava's funeral produced in Belgrade the scenes shown on this page. On Aug. 8, the excommunicated names were read in Orthodox churches, as congregations chanted, "Let him be damned!"

Orthodox priests escorted the Patriarch's coffin, shown with a glass top through which 750,000 Serbs had gazed as it lay in state. In the background are Bishops in mitres.

The coffin was drawn by these Chetniks, terrorist comrades of the Patriarch who in his youth was supposed to have murdered 60 Turks. His friends felt sure he had been poisoned.

Bishop Simeon, marching in the demonstration of July 19 against the Concordat, was knocked unconscious by police.

Hustled by police, two Orthodox priests tried to maintain a clerical calm through the riots on July 19. This worked with the first police they met but not with those above. Over 100 priests and followers were arrested.

THE CAMERA OVERSEAS: ALL ENGLAND GOES OFF FOR ITS AUGUST BANK HOLIDAY

London's Waterloo Station was jam-packed with trippers on Saturday morning, July 31 (above). Since Monday, Aug. 2, was one of England's four "bank holidays," they were getting out of town for the extra-long week end. Nobody worked except railway men and resortkeepers. The 1871 Bank Holiday Act eliminated 33 holidays, fixed Easter Monday, Whit Monday, first August Monday and the day after Christmas. Notice in far background directions to "Old Vic" Theatre where Shakespeare repertory is now performed.

The Duke of Windsor and his American wife, on permanent vacation, spent Bank Holiday in Venice. There he stayed at the Hotel Excelsior, made the rounds of night clubs, worked up a mild sweat playing tennis (above) and went swimming at the Lido to cool off.

King George VI, day after Bank Holiday, flew to visit his own poor boys' camp at Southwold, Suffolk—his last official chore before he takes his family for a six-weeks vacation at Balmoral Castle. Above, in sweater and shorts, His Majesty ducks into the arena.

At Margate beach, few Bank Holiday trippers took off their clothes and went in the water. Notice sign (right centre) prohibiting "free bathing." This means that one must hire a bathhouse for $1.50 in order to bathe. A chair costs about 10¢. Most people take chairs and sit in the sun. England's Coney Island is Southend on the north side of the Thames' mouth. Margate is on the south side, on the North Sea, and is somewhat more refined and expensive. It is an hour and a half from London's Victoria Station.

A NEW CONQUEROR OVERRUNS CHINA'S ANCIENT CAPITAL OF PEIPING

JAPANESE GENERAL KAWABE

MONGOL EMPEROR KUBLAI KHAN

The shrine of old China is Peiping, shown on these pages. It is a great grey city of 1,400,000 souls in a windy, dusty plain, with a red-walled, bright-colored little city set in its centre—the "Purple Forbidden City."

Peiping had been a frontier city against the northern barbarians for 2,000 years when, in the 10th Century, Tartars rode out of the north and made it their Southern Capital. Its golden age began when the great Kublai Khan, himself a Mongol conqueror (above, right) magnificently rebuilt it in 1207. In the 15th Century, the Ming emperors who were native Chinese made it their Northern Capital. To them the North whence came Mongols and dust storms meant trouble. Hence they built all their houses facing south. Peking was laid out for the eye of heaven rather than the eye of man. It was the centre of administration, Army headquarters and the place where final examinations for the highest literary degrees were held. In the Forbidden City lived in magnificent seclusion the Emperor, Lord of a Myriad Years, Son of Heaven, Ruler of the World. Imperial etiquette, complex, stiff and sacred, was run by some 8,000 eunuchs and palace officials. To be found in the Emperor's quarters meant decapitation. After the 1911 Revolution, the last Emperor, little Pu Yi, was permitted to continue living within the Forbidden City. In 1924, the Christian General "Feng" finally kicked him out and soon after Peking (North Capital) was renamed Peiping (North Peace). On Aug. 8, Japanese Major General Masakazu Kawabe (above, left) and 3,000 troops took over this greatest treasure city of Chinese art for Japan.

Entering Peiping from the south through the Chinese city's Yungting Gate (see map), one sees ahead the Chien Men (men means gate), as shown above, main entrance to the Tartar City. The straight road continues through Chien Men (as shown below), toward the Purple Forbidden City, whose Noon Gate or Wu Men may be seen rising in the extreme background. At the right of the picture below are the foreign legation quarter of Peiping and the smart hotels, with at extreme right the barracks of the U. S. Marines.

The Forbidden City or "Great Within." Visitors passed through the T'ien An Gate (at right top of picture), entered the Forbidden City proper by the Noon Gate, crossed the low bridges visible above, awaited audience in the gate-hall of Supreme Harmony and finally arrived, up three flights of steps, at the Throne Hall of Supreme Harmony (centre). In 1911, the Republic took over all this, crowding the last Emperor back into his last Throne Hall at extreme lower left—the Palace of Heavenly Purity. Bottom, centre, was his residence, the Hall of the Nurture of the Mind and, above it, the South Treasure House. Right, centre, the palace eunuchs' offices. All the roofs are gold, walls red.

The bronze lion of Peiping stands south of the Gate of Supreme Harmony, guards the entrance to the waiting room.

The Temple of Heaven (see map) is 99 ft. high, has bronze walls, tile roofs glazed a deep blue, gilded knob on top.

The Yellow Temple (see map) is a glazed yellow lantern, color of the Buddhist religion and of Chinese Emperors.

The Temple of 500 Gods, all Buddhas, is a gloomy shrine in the dusty Western Hills (see map) lined along corridor after corridor with 500 wooden figures, among them Marco Polo.

The Dragon Wall set among the Tartar City's lakes (see map) shows nine dragons of many colors in glazed porcelain. The dragon was the Emperor's symbol, the phoenix the Empress'.

THE GREAT WALL OF CHINA STOOD AGAINST BARBARIANS

This amazing parapet trails for 1,500 miles up & down the mountains of North China. Until 1750 when the mounted hordes of Mongolia had ceased to be a menace to the great infantry armies of China, its watch towers were manned day and night from end to end. The part of the Great Wall shown above is only 35 miles from Peiping and it continues 1,000 miles to the west into Kansu Province. One spur of it shoots southward, just west of Peiping, protecting Hopen Province from attacks from the west. It was begun 2,100 years ago, extensively repaired and extended in the 15th and 16th Centuries. It is an average of 30 ft. high, 12 ft. wide at the summit and has a watch tower every 600 ft. It marks the northern boundary of China proper and its piercing by the Japanese is to Chinese a far more terrible invasion than the Japanese conquest of Manchukuo, which was merely the personal property of China's last conqueror Emperors, the Manchus. Yet past conquerors who have broken into China through the Wall have all been absorbed in the powerful racial strain of the Chinese, lost in China's dominant culture.

SENTINELS OF STONE LINE ROAD TO TOMBS OF MING EMPERORS

Ming Emperors of China (1368-1643) built the Forbidden City and when they died, were buried in the Northern Hills 30 miles north of Peiping, in the shadow of the Great Wall. On the road leading to their tombs they raised the figures shown on this page, which still stand lonely guard on the rubble-littered plain. Once an avenue of pines and oaks sheltered them. Alternate pairs of animals are standing and sitting. Left and right are a Ming official and warrior. The hills in background (above) form an amphitheatre for the imperial tombs while once a river ran in the foreground below the picture. On Aug. 11, three Japanese Army divisions encamped in this plain advanced past Ming tombs to battle a Chinese army in the hills. The Chinese retreated.

PEIPING'S SUMMER PALACE

ON THE MOUNTAIN OF 10,000 AGES THE SUMMER PALACE OVERLOOKS A LOTUS-COVERED NATURAL LAKE

This corner of the Summer Palace is seen again just to the right of the main tower in picture at top. Inside the two little pavilions of weathered yellow tile are Tibetan prayer wheels.

On this dragon throne in the Summer Palace sat the "super-graduate-empress" Tzu Hsi. Dragons were the imperial symbol. This throne was higher than the Emperor's.

Monument to the most damaging single person in modern Chinese history is the Summer Palace 7 miles west of Peiping. It was begun in 1889 by the Empress Tzu Hsi who effectually ruled China for 47 years until her death in 1908. Three years later the Revolution swept her line out of power. Tzu Hsi concentrated in one little head all that was reactionary in ancient Chinese civilization. Her power came from the fact that, as widow of one emperor and mother of another who died in childhood, she had a rank that can only be translated as "super-graduate-empress" and the theoretical power to veto the acts of the actual emperor, her nephew, the liberal Kuang-Hsi who tried to modernize China. She finally had him jailed on an island in the Summer Palace's lake where he died in 1908, to be succeeded by 8-year-old Pu Yi. The hill on which the palaces are built is called "Mountain of 10,000 Ages" in the "Garden of Peaceful Enjoyment." The roofs are of yellow and green tile. Tzu Hsi's prize extravagance was a marble boat built with misappropriated Navy funds.

The camel-back bridge among the willows at the western end of the Summer Palace lake. This picture looks west.

On the hill in background is the Jade Fountain Pagoda and beyond it is the dust-obscured outline of the Western Hills.

FARR, WELSH "BULLDOG," FIGHTS CHAMPION LOUIS AUG. 26

The purposeful face above belongs to Thomas George Paul John Farr, informally known as the "Pit Bulldog." This Welshman's immediate purpose is to box the stuffings out of Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis when they meet at Manhattan's Yankee Stadium Aug. 26. Tommy Farr is 23 years old, stands 6 ft. 1½ in., weighs 208 lb. and, in his own phrase, has the "heart of a lion."

Born in South Wales of a long line of bare-knuckle fighters, Farr worked in the mines until he was 16. Rocks from a subterranean gas explosion permanently damaged his nose. Farr quit mining for a job fighting all comers at a booth in a traveling carnival. For this he got a salary of 60¢ a week.

In April 1936, he won a ten-round decision in London over Bob Olin, former light-heavyweight champion. A year later he defeated Max Baer for a $10,000 purse. Last June he earned $16,500 when he knocked out Walter Neusel. From the Louis fight Aug. 26, he will get 20% of the gate which may run to $300,000.

Old Walsh songs ring out at Tommy Farr's training camp in New Jersey where he vigorously accompanies himself on the piano. Farr, a confirmed baritone, likes to sing. Sportswriters, recalling Jack Doyle's lyric gifts, consider this a bad sign.

A thoughtful dresser, Tommy Farr puts on his shoes at the rubbing table of his training camp. More optimistic than his followers, the "Pit Bulldog" says of Joe Louis: "Bring on your tearing tiger. I shall bloody well twist 'is tyle for 'im!"

"I WORK in cast-iron, run an automatic screw machine at Delco-Remy and the fine iron dust that gets onto a fellow's face makes it almost suicide to try to shave every day with an ordinary razor. Well, I broke down and bought one of these Schick Shavers and what a life-saver it turned out to be."

"You know, after about 17 years of struggling, I finally have this shaving problem whipped."

Shaves extraordinary faces

The Schick Shaver is good for all kinds of beards—from the new soft down on a boy's cheek to the toughest, wiriest beard ever grown. Each day brings us stories of Schick shaving under all kinds of different conditions—skin troubles, sun-burn, easy-bleeding skins, bed-ridden patients, blind men, cripples and older men who had never shaved themselves until they bought a Schick.

For five years men have used the Schick every day. (There are more than a million users now.) They know they can shave quickly, closely and they cannot cut themselves. There are no blades in the Schick. You use no lather. Users testify that the Schick pays for itself over and over again.

Why postpone painless shaving another day?

Go to an authorized Schick dealer. Ask him to show you how simply you could learn this new method which is changing the shaving habits of the world.

GIRL SCOUTS HOLD SILVER JUBILEE ENCAMPMENT AT BRIARCLIFF MANOR, N. Y.

They now wear shorts but they are still sturdy and healthy and they all look alike

In a grove called Camp Andree at Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., the first international encampment in the U. S. of the Girl Scouts began on Aug. 9. For two weeks, 75 American girls live in tents, hike, build fires, sing songs, listen to speeches and try to talk with 26 delegates from foreign countries. The tents are not set in straight lines but haphazardly, for Scouts dislike regimentation. The encampment is no such mass gathering as that of the Boy Scouts (LIFE, July 19) but the girls are equally proud because it is the Silver Jubilee of the day in 1912 when Mrs. Juliette Low, an aristocratic Savannah lady, founded the first Girl Scout troop.

If Founder Low could see the Scouts at Camp Andree, she would be most surprised at their appearance. When Mrs. Low died in 1927, the Scout uniform consisted of khaki skirts or bloomers, long woolen stockings, high shoes and a floppy khaki hat. At Camp Andree the U. S. girls are now wearing the new and fairly snappy camp costumes: "wood-green" romper-shorts, ankle socks, low shoes, no hats.

Scout leaders use the name "Sylvia" for the "ideal Girl Scout." Sylvia, 1937 model, has not changed as much as her costume. She is sturdy, healthy, fond of athletics. Next to camping and tramping, her favorite sport is swimming. She curls her hair and uses make-up, but still thinks more of health than of beauty. Her favorite author, according to Scout headquarters, is Louisa May Alcott.

Girl Scouts do roughly the same things that Boy Scouts do: build fires with one match, tie knots, study nature, learn Morse code. They also learn how to set tables, how to make dresses, how to act on week ends, how to entertain shy boys. Between the Girl Scouts and the Boy Scouts there is a noticeable coolness, the boys considering that the girls are copying them. Nevertheless, many ex-Girl Scouts prefer ex-Boy Scouts as husbands.

There are 500,000 U. S. Girl Scouts or one for every two Boy Scouts. A girl can join at 10, work up from tenderfoot to second class to first class. Supreme achievement is to become a "Golden Eaglet."

Hope Gimbel, 22-year-old daughter of the Bernard Gimbels (department stores) is engaged to marry David Solinger, 31-year-old Manhattan lawyer. Miss Gimbel met him six weeks ago at a Westchester dinner party. Educated at Rosemary Hall, Bryn Mawr and the Sorbonne, she is a noted horsewoman, has won many a silver cup. Mr. Solinger's game is golf.

Jean Crawford made news when Dorothy Rogers, Hollywood stenographer, sued her for $250,000. Miss Rogers claimed the movie actress abruptly ended their "close friendship," caused her to lose her RKO job. She withdrew her suit when RKO rehired her. Said Miss Crawford: "Dorothy Rogers is not a personal friend, but a fan I tried to be nice to."

Jack Gebhardt, Chicago policeman, paled when a telephone call to his station said "A woman has shot her husband at 252 Grace Street." Rushing to the scene he found it was his sister Ruth's apartment. The latter stood with a gun over her dying husband, George Werlein. Officer Gebhardt arrested his sister, brought her to the station.

Mrs. George Werlein, sister of Policeman Gebhardt, shot her husband after a quarrel in which he had knocked her down, bent her head against the floor, questioned paternity of her 9-month-old baby. "She screamed. Neighbors called the police, and Uncle Jack came," said her daughter Shirley. "Justifiable homicide," reported the coroner's jury.

Abraham Wisniewsky, oldest inmate of New York's Home of the Daughters of Jacob, celebrated his 121st birthday with cake, candles and a good deal of repartee. Three widowed and twice divorced, he said he would like to marry a young woman with yellow hair. Of the female inmates, all over 65, he said "They don't appeal to me"

Bishop William H. Heard of the African Methodist Episcopal Church of Philadelphia was asked to move from a hotel in Edinburgh where he was attending a conference. Sir John Simon and the Archbishop of York promptly expressed regret; the latter invited the 87-year-old bishop to visit him. Comfortable in another hotel, he declined.

Paula Stone, actress-daughter of Actor Fred Stone, and George Walker Mason, Hollywood night-club operator, got a marriage license in Santa Barbara. "We haven't the least idea when we will use it," giggled Miss Stone, who was recently signed for a part in the forthcoming Dick Merrill picture, Atlantic Flight. Said her mother: "That's a surprise!"

Mrs. Eunice Winstead Johns, Tennessee's 9-year-old child bride, got soundly switched by Teacher Wade Ferguson for "general mischievousness" on her second day at Fairmont Grade School. When her husband Charlie Johns told Mr. Ferguson he couldn't whip another man's wife, Ferguson said he certainly could. Naughty Eunice quit school.

Harry French of Alturas, Calif. last spring shot and killed Claude McCracken, editor of a local paper competing with one published by Harry's parents. Day before the shooting, McCracken had jocosely printed an item about a man named French being hanged as a horse thief. Found guilty of murder, Harry French awaits hanging at San Quentin.

Oscar May, 47-year-old worker of New Orleans, was tied to a chinaberry tree and publicly flogged by Eloise Willis, 17. She accused him of spreading rumors that a hospital visit for appendicitis had actually been to hear a child. Charged with assault, Miss Willis said: "I was delighted to give a beating to a guy who passed such foul remarks."

Muriel ("Honey") Johnson of Bronxville, N. Y. has been reported engaged to so many celebrities that when friends said she would marry David Mdivani, Mae Murray's former husband, no one knew what to think. "Honey" cast no light on the matter. Homeward bound from Venice where she met Mdivani, she said perhaps she would, perhaps she wouldn't.

Helena Rubinstein, famed cosmetician whose fortune comes largely from women anxious to appear attractive to men, is suing her husband, Edward W. Titus, for divorce on grounds of adultery. She claims 67-year-old Mr. Titus, a retired Paris publisher, committed infidelities with a young woman on the Riviera while his wife was busy working.

LIFE'S PICTURES

Born 35 years ago in Gotha, Thuringia, brought up in Berlin, George Karger, at 19, had made such a successful start in banking that he had champagne with his dinner every night. He spent the following 10 years working in banks in Berlin, Paris and Chicago. Not until 1930 did he take his camera hobby seriously, when he started selling advertising photographs. By 1935, he found that he was making more money with his camera than at banking, gave up the latter. One of his greatest accomplishments is his success in taking stage action shots. For this issue of LIFE he took many of the pictures of Summer Theatres, also the panel board of the giant transcontinental Douglas Plane.

Alka-Seltzer

It's so easy to get quick relief from Headache, Sour Stomach, Distress after meals, and other common aches and pains the Alka-Seltzer way. You just drop an Alka-Seltzer Tablet into a glass of water. It bubbles up and dissolves, making a crystal clear, pleasant-tasting solution. You drink it and then, because Alka-Seltzer contains an analgesic (sodium acetyl salicylate), the pain and discomfort usually disappear quickly. And because it is also alkalizing in its nature, it corrects the excess acid condition so often associated with everyday ailments. Try it—you'll like its pleasant taste and the quick relief it brings.

A NEW winter heating comfort has come into being, based on a new control so complete, so automatic in its operation that it cannot be compared with any conventional thermostat. This control is the Acratherm, incorporating the new Accelerator. It actually senses temperature changes before they occur and speeds up the heating system to meet them. It literally irons out heat fluctuations in any modern heating system by automatically adjusting the length and number of burner operations to supply heat in response to the fluctuations of outside weather. Short, frequent burner operations in cold weather, less frequent operations in mild weather produce "Stabilized Heat." No thermostat without the Acratherm Accelerator can do this. Therefore when you install Automatic Heating or modernize your present equipment insist that it is Acratherm Controlled. ## PRETTY AMATEURS SET SPORT STYLES

Legend has it that American girls excelling in sports are usually short on looks and style. Here are seven amateur girl athletes, looking so smart and attractive they might be models posing for commercial photos of sports clothes. Grace Amory (below), 20, daughter of Mrs. Herbert Pulitzer and the late Charles Minot Amory, won six Long Island and Westchester golf tournaments this year. She is considered the best-dressed woman golfer.

Faculty of the Goodyear College Graduate Training School includes Bill Dowman (left) in charge of personnel, Thoburn Wallington ("Tholey") Prior (centre) who visits campuses in search of talent; and Albert Goulding (right) in charge of the engineering squadron.

A classroom lecture is delivered by Goodyear Personnelman Bill Dowman who tells Training School students a few things about the company's 39-year history. Because their reward is a livelihood rather than high marks, the boys are more attentive than on most campuses.

Life Goes to a Party

with 103 Goodyear "Graduates" at President Litchfield's

A college diploma is a pleasant distinction but unless it brings a job, four years' study is likely to seem a hollow thing. No less eager to hire promising students than promising students are to be hired are great U. S. industrial concerns which annually scour campuses for likely prospects. No exception, the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. of Akron, Ohio has for 24 years had a roving representative interview hundreds of job-seeking seniors at colleges and engineering schools all over the country.

On these pages you see Goodyear's 1937 crop of white-collar neophytes—103 graduates garnered from 50 colleges in 21 states. Coming to Akron in mid-June, they undergo a six-weeks classroom and inspection course at the Goodyear Training School learning the fundamentals of rubber manufacture and management. When they finish this preliminary training and are "graduated" into more permanent employment with the company, Goodyear's President Paul W. Litchfield invites them to an annual lawn party held at his estate. There these ambitious young men eat, play games, chat with company bigwigs on terms of shirt-sleeved informality.

Earning from $115 to $125 a month at the start, these Goodyear beginners follow up the classroom period with a year's training in actual manufacture, salesmanship, or office management. By that time 15% will have resigned, 10% will have been fired. The remaining 75%, now full-fledged workers, should be earning $175 a month and looking forward to a secure future.

Host at the students' lawn party was shy, 62-year-old, socially-minded Paul W. Litchfield, president of Goodyear, who occasionally asks a few of his new college-graduate employees in for a game of billiards. For further scenes of Mr. Litchfield's party, see opposite.

Negligent classroom posture and attire are here exhibited by Goodyear beginners. Their alma maters might well have frowned on such casual informality but Akron is hot in mid-summer. Besides, these youngsters are about to "graduate" and go to the Litchfield party.

Food was plentiful at the Goodyear party on the lawn of President Litchfield's Akron estate where at long tables the 100-odd guests consumed sizable portions of cold meat, rolls, potato salad, tomatoes, ice cream and soft drinks. With the newly-hired college boys sat various Goodyear executives, visible portents of what the rookies might be 20 years from now. Following lunch, cigars and cigarettes were distributed among the guests and the various college groups represented rendered their undergraduate songs.

Sports were varied at Mr. Litchfield's lawn party. Here you see exhibitions of badminton, (top left) croquet, (top right) horseshoe pitching (bottom left) and bowling on the green (bottom right). Note the Litchfield house at rear of croquet players. Of seafaring New England ancestry, Mr. Litchfield is a yachting enthusiast and a competent wrestler, keeps fit in a private gymnasium. Because he is a teetotaler, his employe-guests solaced themselves between their sports by visits to a soft drink bar

Youth Will Be Served. "My three-year-old son started his Pullman career at the age of six months," says Mrs. W. H. HATTENDORF, Little Theatre enthusiast, Western Springs, Ill. "He didn't say so, but I'm sure he was as appreciative as I am of the niceties of Pullman service and the employees' sincere interest in our welfare."

"When I have to 'buzz off' on a trip, Pullman is my preference. Almost every trip I make ends at a microphone. I have to arrive fresh, ready to work. On dozens and dozens of trips around the country, and on many shorter rides, too, I always pick a Pullman drawing room because of its homelike comfort and privacy."

The Art of Making Beds

There is a touch of magic in the way a Pullman bed is made. A generous "pleat" or "expansion tuck" is left in sheet and covers along the inside and at the foot of the berth. Card punching after a gym workout is an afternoon practice for Goodyear Training School boys. At work by 7:30, most days they are through inspecting plants by 3. Then they either attend lectures or play softball at the Goodyear stadium.

Calisthenics at the Goodyear Co.'s Seiberling Athletic Field helps keep Training School boys healthy after a busy day of factory tours and lectures on management. The field comprises 33 acres and is for the use of all Goodyear employees.

Relaxation at the day's end often consists of blackjack and beer. Most of the boys live in Akron boardinghouses costing from eight to thirteen dollars a week.

FREE! $1000<sup>00</sup> A DAY FOR 30 DAYS

A NEW CONTEST and a NEW CHANCE to WIN $1,000 EACH DAY for 30 DAYS!

Contests Open August 9 and Continue Every Week Day, Except Saturdays And Sundays, Through September 17

HERE'S ALL YOU DO:

JUST COMPLETE THIS SENTENCE: "I Like OXYDOL For Washing Clothes Because ....."
(in 25 additional words or less)

The Purpose of this Contest is to Introduce to Your Home this Amazing "15 Minute Soaking" Laundry Soap—OXYDOL

• Here's the most amazing contest of all time... because you have a new chance each day to win $1,000 cash! 30 daily contests in all! And a brand-new $1,000 bill given away each day!

And the requirement for the contest is so simple, so easy, that even a child can win! All you do is finish the sentence shown on the entry blank... "I like OXYDOL for washing clothes because..." (in 25 additional words or less).

For instance, one simple answer would be as follows: "I like Oxydol for washing clothes because it gets them 4 to 5 shades whiter without scrubbing or boiling."

What Oxydol Is

Oxydol is science's newest and most amazing laundry soap, developed by the makers of gentle Ivory. Combining speed and safety in an utterly new way, it does these 4 amazing things:

(1) Soaks the dirt loose in 15 minutes, without scrubbing or boiling. Even the grimy spots come snowy white with a few quick rubs. (2) Gets white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter, proved by scientific Tintometer tests. (3) Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. (4) Yet so safe that every washable color comes out sparkling, brilliant, fresh! And hands stay soft and lovely!

Women by millions are discarding old-fashioned soaps and switching to Oxydol... to save backaches on washday... to get whiter, cleaner clothes.

Don't Wait! Enter Now...Enter Each Day

Remember, there's a new contest each day. A new chance to win a brand-new $1,000 bill. Start now! The contests begin August 9. All entries received by Procter & Gamble on any contest day will be entered in that day's contest. It's the most wonderful contest ever held. It's the greatest chance you've ever had to win $1,000 cash. The quicker you get started the better—so don't delay. Get Oxydol from your dealer today.

TESTED AND APPROVED BY GOOD HOUSEKEEPING INSTITUTE

HOORAY! THE WESTERN UNION BROUGHT ME A BRAND-NEW $1000 BILL FROM THE MAKERS OF OXYDOL

JUST THINK! WHAT THAT WILL BUY! A NEW CAR-- A NEW RADIO! WE'RE SETTIN' ON TOP OF THE WORLD!

HINTS ON HOW TO WIN

Read carefully every word of this advertisement. In the description of Oxydol, and what it does, you will find many excellent ideas for completing your simple statements in 25 words or less.

Try Oxydol for washing clothes, and see for yourself what it does. Note that you can get thick, billowy suds in any water—hard or soft. Note how quickly these suds soak the dirt loose from clothes.

Remember that the judges will be impressed more by simple and sincere phrases concerning what you think of Oxydol, than by fancy words. What is most important, is your own honest reaction to the product.

CONTEST RULES—READ CAREFULLY

1 Simply finish the sentence "I like Oxydol for washing clothes because..." (writing 25 additional words or less). Write your entry on the blank at the right, or on a separate sheet of plain paper. Sign your name and address. Also be sure to give the name and address of the dealer who sells you Oxydol.

2 Send in as many entries as you wish, provided each one is accompanied by an OXYDOL box-top, any size (or facsimile). Mail your entries to Oxydol, Box 735 Cincinnati, Ohio.

3 There are 30 separate contests—a new contest each day (except Saturdays and Sundays) from August 9th to September 17th, inclusive. All entries received by Procter & Gamble on any contest day will be entered in that day's contest. Entries received any time before August 9th will be entered in the August 9th contest. All entries received on Saturdays and Sundays will automatically be entered in the contest for the following Monday. The final (30th) contest on September 17th will include all entries received on that day and all entries postmarked not later than midnight of that day.

4 The winners of each day's contest will receive $1,000. All winners will be notified by Western Union and their names announced daily beginning Monday, Aug. 16th, over the Oxydol Ma Perkins radio program. 5 All entries will be judged on the basis of sincerity, clearness, and particularly originality. Penmanship and fancy entries do not count extra. Decision of the judges will be final. Duplicate prizes will be awarded in case of ties. No entries will be returned. All entries, ideas and contents thereof become the property of Procter & Gamble.

6 Anyone may enter these contests except employees of Procter & Gamble and of their advertising agencies, and the families of these employees. These contests apply only to the United States, Canada and Hawaii and are subject to all Federal, state and local laws and regulations.

Final (30th) Contest Closes at 12 Midnight, Sept. 17, 1937

LIGHTNING

Sirs:

The enclosed candid camera shot of a lightning flash was taken about midnight on July 21 while a severe electrical storm was raging. The camera was rested on a ledge of the porch of my residence and pointed to a sector of the sky visible through the trees on the grounds of the Deer Lodge Military Hospital which is seen in the background.

The camera shutter was held open by means of the cable release for about 15 minutes awaiting a suitable flash. When it came, the bolt almost knocked me off my feet and it was several minutes before my eyes recovered from the blinding glare. An odor of ozone permeated the air for a brief time afterwards.

Distance from the camera to the top of the caragana hedge, along which the bolt traveled, was later measured at 37 feet.

ANALOGY

Sirs:

In reference to the controversy about the bottom spokes of a locomotive wheel standing still, LIFE's analogy (July 28, page 14) of man's knees moving faster than his elbows, during the turning of a cartwheel, is proven by the enclosed photo, posed by Helen Thurston, Hollywood acrobat. The focal-plane shutter of the camera operated so that the top part of the film (in this case, her feet) was exposed first.

INVISIBLE FINISH LINE

Sirs:

Designed by Lorenzo del Riccio, a camera that may put an end to all photographic-finish disputes has been in operation at Del Mar's track in California with such success that race tracks throughout the country are making inquiries with a view to establish the winner of races beyond question of doubt. The finish of a Del Mar race, exactly as caught by the camera, is reproduced above. No finish line appears in the photograph. In fact, no finish line is needed. Del Riccio's new camera, fitted with a special lens, was focused on the actual finish line and soldered in place under supervision of the Del Mar County Surveyor. The split second the nose of the winning horse enters the field of the camera lens—which can "see" only through the narrow slit in the lens's hood—an exposure is made. Each horse is photographed as it in turn comes into range of the camera lens, the effect being a strung out picture of the race finish seen above.

As each horse finishes, the exact time is recorded on the negative. That is not a white rail you see at the bottom of the picture. Each white upright, resembling a fence post, represents the passage of one-fifth second in time.

with this "Soft-Stilld" Gin

Those long gin drinks don't have to get watery. Use Seagram's—and that "last inch" tastes rich as the first sip.

"Soft-stilling" does it. The rich full flavor is deeply infused by Seagram's "soft-stilling" method. Even a big batch of Martinis keeps rich, despite melting ice.

Try This Test Yourself:

Pour a teaspoonful of Seagram's Gin into a large glass of water. Stir it. Smell it. Taste it. You still get that full-bodied flavor—even when it's diluted 16 to 1.

GIN JULEP

Place 15 mint leaves in a 14 oz. glass. Add 1 heaping teaspoon sugar & 1/2 oz. plain water. Muddle gently to extract mint flavor. Add fine ice to half-filled glass. Pour 2 oz. Seagram's King Arthur Gin over ice. Stir constantly, holding glass at base. Add more ice to fill glass and continue stirring until glass frosts. Place bouquet of mint, stems down, on finished drink. # THE EASY WAY TO REDUCE

says lovely Marion Talley

Follow the Hollywood Habit

1. Exercise Moderately.

"You can reduce without exercising strenuously", says Miss Talley, "if you remember to follow Rules 2 and 3."

2. Eat Sensibly.

"Starvation diets are out", says Miss Talley. "This plan permits you to lose pounds and still enjoy most of your favorite foods."

3. Eat Ry-Krisp at every meal.

Ry-Krisp wafers satisfy the appetite, taste delicious and contain only 20 calories each.

Ry-Krisp, Scandinavian style bread, has a tangy flavor no appetite can resist. Put a plate of toasted Ry-Krisp wafers on the table tomorrow morning and notice how quickly they disappear. Serve Ry-Krisp with light luncheons, with hearty dinners—have some handy for between-meal nibbling.

Crisp and crunchy, with the tantalizing goodness of whole rye, this nourishing bread adds zest to any meal, any occasion. Begin today to enjoy Ry-Krisp morning, noon and night...not only because it gives you freedom from figure-worries but because it's a wholesome food for the whole family.

HANDSOMEST JAPANESE

Sirs:

Here is a shot of the youth who has just been chosen the handsomest Japanese by an international committee of Japanese-American newsmen. He is Kiyo Tashiro, known as the Japanese King of Jazz, radio singer, actor and one of the world's foremost jiu-jitsu experts. He once attended Harvard where he was a crack athlete, now attends the University of Cincinnati preparing for medicine. Mild looking, he is a tough man to pick on. He is the first son of world famous Dr. Shiro Tashiro, one of the few Japanese on list in Who's Who in America (1936-37). He has been a caddy, radio star, student and factory hand. He is in love with a Cincinnati nurse, who, he says, doesn't know he exists.

TOAD AND TUATARA

Sirs:

When my pet horned toad caught sight of the picture in LIFE for July 26 of New Zealand's tuatara poised with its chin on a rock it immediately assumed a like posture.

You may see by the accompanying photograph that while the horned toad may not have a third eye, he has a good deal of poise and character. He is a well-mannered friendly little fellow, and not at all puffed over his family history which dates from almost as early times as that of the tuatara.

1,500,000 NOW BUY Look

THE IRRESISTIBLE PICTURE MAGAZINE

FIRST ADVERTISING WILL APPEAR IN Look
ISSUE OF NOVEMBER 9.. ON THE NEWSSTANDS OCTOBER 26!

WITH 200,000 to spare, Look now announces 1,500,000 circulation. 1,713,000 people went to the newsstands and paid $171,300 for the issue of Look dated July 20.

This is a spectacular figure, and even more so when you know that 1,713,000 people bought Look at 10c a copy because they wanted it. All this was voluntary newsstand sale. No boy salesmen, no subscription canvassers, no contests, no subscription premiums!

This unprecedented circulation record not only confirms a vast, and as yet unmeasured, public enjoyment of pictures, but also stands as a genuine tribute to Look's unusual editorial technique of narrative-in-pictures.

For Look has proved that interesting feature stories in all the varied divisions of human interest can be told with pictures, headlines and brief captions, omitting other text.

Look, with its reader interest so convincingly established long ahead of its publisher's most optimistic estimates, now opens its pages to advertising.

With the issue of November 9, on the newsstands October 26, the first advertising pages will appear in America's irresistible picture magazine.

In the meantime, Look will continue to furnish its vivid, sparkling type of pictured entertainment to more and more interested readers. More and more you'll hear it said Look is going to town!

PRODUCT OF IMAGINATION

Sirs:

Our reactions to the July 12 issue of LIFE were favorable until we reached page 90, which carried pictures of Andy Wheat, captioned "Andy Gump in Person," together with a letter from John L. Warner, of Watertown, N. Y. You may or may not know that the Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate, Inc. owns the comic feature "The Gumps," in which appears the character "Andy Gump." We would like to call your attention to the fact that Mr. Warner's story of "Andy Gump in Person" is without basis in fact. Sidney Smith created the comic character "Andy Gump" about twenty years ago, and this character was entirely the product of his own imagination. We have in our possession a recent affidavit from Dr. Thomas Smith, of Bloomington, Illinois, (not Bloomington) that neither he nor his brother, Sidney Smith, ever met Andy Wheat until about four years ago.

This is not the first instance of a claim to the honor of being the original "Andy Gump." A few years ago another person put forth this claim, but his claim was thoroughly discredited. We have heard that there are others who have put forward similar claims. We are enclosing herewith a picture of one such person. This might be of interest to such of your readers who have followed the adventures of the man who "wears no man's collar." Which individual bears the closest resemblance to Sidney Smith's brain child is a matter of individual choice. We know that none of them bear such resemblance.

We assume that Mr. Warner's pictures were published without knowledge on the part of the Editors of LIFE of the real facts, and we therefore request that the Editors of LIFE give this communication equal prominence with the pictures appearing in the July 12 issue.

Does it mix?

It is a mixing gin, we think, when you neither smell nor taste it in the finished drink

A MIXING GIN must play the "strong man" in a really smooth Tom Collins. Its flavor should support the lemon, sugar and soda—never overpower them.

Mixed drinks are an American idea. To meet the American taste that demands smoothness in mixed drinks, Fleischmann's Gin is distilled especially for mixing—from American grain.

Fleischmann's is the original American gin, established 1870. Our secret formula makes it the real American Mixer. Buy a bottle. And next time you order a Tom Collins, say: "Make it with Fleischmann's." The Fleischmann Distilling Corporation, Peekskill, N. Y.

... in offices where all else is modern and efficient, names and addresses and related information are tediously rewritten by hand on all sorts of forms as in the long, long ago. And in the same out-dated way, standard specifications, instructions, descriptions and other frequently-used data are written again and again.

Thus the wheel of expense revolves. Thus employees are kept from more profitable work.

Whether your business is large or small, Addressographing will quickly make big savings in necessary repetitive work . . . by making possible simpler and more efficient systems; by speeding up routine; by stopping mistakes; by stepping up sales and collections. ★ Always accurately and 10 to 50 times faster than hands, Addressograph writes names, addresses, information, instructions or other facts and figures on employees' pay forms and Social Security records, reports and receipts . . . on ledger pages, statements and other accounting and collection forms . . . on advertising and selling literature to be mailed . . . on stockholder records and dividend checks . . . on factory production and shipping forms . . . on stock records and inventories . . . on publication wrappers . . . on ALL KINDS of office, store and factory forms and communications. ★ The Addressograph line includes new, improved, expense-reducing machines in three classes: hand-operated, electric and super-speed automatic models.
